USF Office of Supplier Diversity Wins Florida State Minority Supplier Development Council Award

The University of South Florida has earned statewide recognition for its supplier diversity and community engagement efforts. The Miami-based Florida State Minority Supplier Development Council honored USF with its “Doing Well While Doing Good Humanitarian Award” in the corporation category during its 45th annual Business Impact Awards event. “A Celebration of Excellence in Supplier Diversity” was the theme of the virtual event, which recognized the achievements of Florida’s top minority businesses, major corporations and individuals committed to supplier diversity in 14 categories.

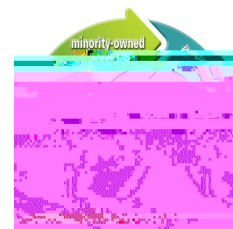

The Doing Well While Doing Good (DWWDG) Humanitarian Award is Florida’s award for :

- 8(a) Business Development program
- All Small Mentor-Protégé program
- HUBZone program
- Natural Resource Sales Assistance program

USF Supplier Diversity; A Competitive Advantage

USF Supplier Diversity is a business strategy that encourages the inclusion of businesses owned by ethnic minorities, women, and veterans into an enterprise's supplier base. As the university attracts more diversity suppliers, it is very important to measure the success of the supplier diversity program to convert it into a competitive advantage for the business community. USF has implemented a university wide reporting plan to ensure correct information is being compiled. It is also important to calculate the ripple effects of investments made toward supplier diversity and the economic impact created on the local economy.
